College of Szolnok keeping up its tradition is organising the 21st International Student Conference on Environmental Protection and Rural Development 29 May 2015. We kindly invite talented college, university and PhD students to the conference who intend to give lectures and/or to present posters in the fields of nature and environmental protection as well as rural development.

The objective of the conference is to provide opportunities for college, university and PhD students - as part of talent management during the course of their studies - to take part in professional programmes, exchange different ideas and develop national and international scientific relations.

conference announcement and call for papers application form
formal requirements