

Students Scientific Society of Jagiellonian Univeristy Medical College, would like to invite all the students from University of Nis for 23. International Medical Students' Conference, Kraków 2015 (IMSC), organized by which takes place from the 16th to the 18th of April in Kraków. The Conference is a great opportunity for medical students from all over the world to present their research work in front of international audience. The Conference is at the same time the competition for the best students' papers.

The aim of the IMSC is popularisation of science among medical students and encouragement to developing their interests, making their first steps on the way of scientific career.

Attending interesting workshops participants will gain a certain advantage for the practical work of the future medical profession. The social program of the Conference gives the possibility to get new friends and make you feel the magic atmosphere of Kraków!
